Local stone, glass and repurposed cypress, along with natural woven fibers such as linen, grass cloth, and wool, create a sustainable design which feels harmonious with the surrounding environment.
Two separate guest suites are anchored into the hillside below the main house, and are accessed by an exterior stone stairway. Their massive curved deck overhangs the hillside and maximizes the Eastern morning light and ocean views.
Local stone, glass and repurposed cypress, along with natural woven fibers such as linen, grass cloth, and wool, create a sustainable design which feels harmonious with the surrounding environment.